

MONUMENT WEEK

Decoration Day Will be Made Grandly Memorable.

HEROES IN MARBLE AND BRONZE

Unveiling of the Great Soldiers' Monument at Rochester, the General Patterson Monument at Lenox.

[For THE SUNDAY HERALD—Copyrighted.]

And when the stream Which overflowed the soul was passed away A consciousness remained that it had left Deposited upon the silent shore Of memory, images and precious thoughts That shall not die and cannot be destroyed.

"Monument week" would perhaps be an appropriate name for this period of decoration days: this time of annual tribute, of deep veneration for deeds of valor and of fitting recognition for the results of patriotic endeavor. Time is lending its halo as the years increase the perspective of those troublous times, times when "troops of heroes undistinguished died" and we of a later generation are arising more and more to that worship, ever the incentive to a refreshing love of country, which a later generation showed for Washington, for Wellington, for Blucher or in the dinner past for an Arnold Winkelried.

Tomorrow three monuments of especial note are to be unveiled and later in the week another is to be dedicated on the field of the battle of Gettysburg. All of these unveilings will be made occasions of note, occasions for the outpouring of a younger generation's gratitude and appreciation.

At Richmond the men who fought under General A. P. Hill will reveal the marble presentation of the southern hero to the public eye. At Lenox, Mass., the statue of a revolutionary hero, General Patterson, will be unveiled, and at Rochester the dedications of that entire section of the state ington, narrowly escaped death at Saratoga and was prominent in the councils at Monmouth in 1778. He fought in most of the great battles of the revolution and was one of the founders of the Society of Cincinnati. He died in July, 1809.

THE SOLDIERS' MONUMENT TO BE UNVEILED AT ROCHESTER.

At Richmond the ceremonies attending the unveiling of the General A. P. Hill monument will take on the nature of a state celebration. Colonel W. H. Palmer, Governor Harry Hays and other officers under Hill raised the fund for this marble and bronze embodiment and will take a prominent part in the services. General James Walker, of Wytheville, Va., will be the orator of the day, and General Harry Heth the chief marshal. The widow and two daughters of General Hill will attend the unveiling. The governor and staff will have seats of honor.

"High Water Mark" monument receives its name from the old copse of scrub oak trees on Cemetery Ridge at Gettysburg, where the confederate army began its retreat on that fateful July 3. It was the "high water mark" of the rebellion, and from the moment that Longstreet fell back dates the decline of the confederate cause. The monument association has enclosed the copse of trees with a high iron fence to protect it from relic hunters. The monument stands on the east side of the copse, and was erected by the states of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio, Michigan and Minnesota. Troops from all of these states fought and repulsed the famous assault.

THE HIGH WATER MARK MONUMENT AT GETTYSBURG.

An open bronze book surmounts the monument. It weighs 1,275 pounds and is supported by a pyramid of cannon balls. The left page bears a legend describing the assault and that on the right tells of the repulse. The whole rests on a highly polished plinth and base of Maine and Massachusetts granite with a massive water table of Gettysburg granite. A walk of granite, inclosed by dressed granite curbing and approached by hammered granite steps, surrounds the monument. In the center of each space on the side stands a twelve-pounder, Napoleon gun, with pyramids of cannon balls. Three bronze tablets on the plinth of the monument tell an interesting story. On the south side are the names of all the regiments that marched in the charging column, while on the north side are the names of the regiments and batteries which met and assisted to repulse the assault. In front is a tablet containing the names of the states that made appropriations to erect the monument.

The dedication service will excel in interest any that have yet taken place on the famous battlefield. President Harrison and cabinet are expected, the governors of ten states have promised to attend and the exercises will be of unusual interest. The orator of the occasion will be General Henry H. Bingham, of Philadelphia, and the poet James Jeffrey Roche, of the Boston Pilot.

Platforms about the copse of the trees have been arranged to hold 1,500 guests, but fully 10,000 will probably attend and witness the ceremonies from the sides.

After the Grip Hood's Saraparilla will restore your strength and health, and expel every trace of poison from the blood.

PROGRESS IN SCIENCE.

Brief Mention of the Advance in Various Industries.

The deepest mine in the world is understood to be the rock salt bore at Spensberg, near Berlin, Germany, which yields the saline product at a depth of 4,175 feet.

AN ITEM FOR CYCLISTS.

A mathematician has determined that a bicyclist can travel fifteen miles over a good road on his wheel with less exertion than he can walk three miles.

A STONE SOLE FOR SHOES.

A Berlin shoemaker has invented an artificial stone sole for shoes, composed of a mixture of cement and white sand. It is claimed that a pair of such shoes will last for years, besides being elastic and comfortable to the feet.

THE DUMB TAUGHT TO SPEAK.

It is not generally known what wonderful progress has been made in this country of late years in teaching the dumb to speak. It appears from the official records that last year articulation was taught to no less than 4,245 pupils in American schools for the deaf. In a large number of these cases the infirmity dated from birth, and was inherited.

HIGH SPEED OF FREIGHT TRAINS.

A German engineer concludes that if the speed of freight trains be increased from fourteen to twenty-eight miles an hour, instead of adding to the weight to be hauled by the engine, the expenses per car per mile at the higher speed would be one-fourth less for repairs and only one-fifth more for fuel.

SAWMILL IMPROVEMENTS.

In sawmills where pneumatic pipes are employed for removing the sawdust, it is found that the back of the saw usually throws up fine dust in spite of the air suction. It is said that the difficulty has been overcome by a device for admitting air to the saw-hopper in such a way as to cause it to impinge on the sides and teeth of the saw and thus give it an air-blast washing.

IMPROVED ELECTRIC LIGHT REFLECTORS.

In the installation of the electric light in the Hagincolles tunnel, near Paris, the incandescent lamps are placed at a height of about fifteen feet above the rails. The glow of the lamps is received by plates of burnished tin covered with glass, which reflect a soft and agreeable light into the cars.

LIGHT WITHOUT HEAT.

As an evidence of the fact that the present investigations and experiments of electricians are in the right direction, the firely furnishes direct proof that light may be produced without the accompaniment of heat.

IN FACTORY AND MILL.

Practical Hints of Value to the Busy World of Workers.

In testing the conditions of the atmosphere inside a petroleum tank, if the air at the bottom is found not to be inflammable that above is sure not to be so.

SAFETY VALVES.

One of the most important duties of the engineer is to see that safety valves are always in good working order, and their condition should be determined frequently.

A SOURCE OF LOSS.

Boilers kept under steam ready for such work as they may be called upon to supply, are a source of considerable loss by the radiation and reduction of heat.

SENSITIVE STEEL.

Steel containing enough carbon to harden is very sensitive to the influence of heat, and must be treated with care. The more carbon there is the greater the necessity of proper heating.

EXPANSION OF PIPES.

The forces exerted by the expansion of material is very great, and brick walls have been known to become untrue by the constant heat of a steam pipe. It is indispensable that some provision be made in many cases for such changes in dimensions.

SMOKE PREVENTION.

The principle followed by Mr. Thwaite in his appliances for the prevention of smoke in steam generators consists in the admission of a secondary air supply through a wire screen of specific mesh, adapted to effect with the mixture of the passage of such air, so as to accord accurately with the "pull" on the grate, which remains unaffected.

NEW ALLOYS.

Two new alloys are being used in England for boring and cutting tools. They equal steel in hardness and retain their temper when heated by friction. These alloys are made of pig-iron, ferro-manganese, chromium and tungsten in proper proportions, melted together under charcoal and calcined borax, the mixture afterward being treated to small quantities of nickel, copper and aluminium.

Va., says: "Since we have been handling Chamberlain's Cough Remedy we have sold it on a strict guarantee, and found that every bottle did good service. We have used it ourselves, and think it superior to any other preparation we know of." 50 cent bottles for sale by Z. C. M. I. drug department.
